Founded in 1971, Thorp of London was created by Bernard Thorp, a passionate, avant-garde designer. The first collections were inspired by items sourced at auctions including artists' drawings and antique textiles with an authentic English style. The brand soon based its workshop in the heart of Norfolk, England, and established itself as a specialist in traditional hand screen printing.

In 2022, Maison Pierre Frey acquired Thorp of London with the aim of preserving a traditional technique and to further enhance luxury craftsmanship.

Patterns inspired by a captivating english countryside

Known for its unique, unspoiled landscapes steeped in nature and rural heritage, Norfolk's pristine environment provides a fertile setting for endless creative inspiration. All models reflect the natural harmony and rustic aesthetics of the region, while adding a touch of natural elegance.

Each design with its texture and tonal nuances tells a story drawn from this land, embodying the tradition, craftsmanship and deep love for its landscapes that continues to spark the imagination and creativity of the Thorp of London studio.

Behind each creation, the craftsmen

At Thorp of London there is a team of young craftsmen who are reviving the age-old art of screen printing.

With skillful hands and boundless passion, they apply their expertise to create exceptional fabrics and wallpapers, turning each pattern into a reality.

Behind each creation, the hand

For Marcello, Nicole and Jordan, each colour application and precise action is a form of dialogue with the material. Every ground has its own character and sensitivity. Every colour is assigned a screen, used like a stencil that constructs the design. Each pattern is assigned a squeegee, a tool that is soft or hard which allows the paint to be drawn across the frame. The angle and pressure used in pulling the squeegee plays a crucial role in capturing the detail and quality of the print.

The craftsmen prepare the printing table with care, adjust the ground for printing, and then the ballet of screens begins, respecting the drying time of the paint.

The hands secure, glide, lift, print, and touch.

Reviving traditional handcrafted printing

Every attention to detail reveals the passion of these young craftsmen, awakened by their admiration for the beauty and complexity of handcrafted printing. Driven by a deep desire to preserve and revitalize a traditional craft that might otherwise disappear.

Behind each creation, the ground

The selection of the ground base kickstarts the creative journey. From cottons to linens, from hemp to jute, along with moiré fabrics and non-woven papers, each provides a unique textural impact that can dramatically alter the final appearance of the prints.

Thorp of London presents a diverse collection of 31 unique grounds, each with its own texture and feel. Like a celebration of diversity, every fabric has its own tale, expressed through its texture and weave. From the sleekness of silk to the rugged charm of linen or jute evoking nature's elegant rusticity, each material stands out with a distinct character.

Behind each creation, the colour

Viktor is a colourist with a mission. To create a symphony of precision, sensitivity and dedication. His quest is meticulous, almost alchemical. He is a maestro of nuances, playing with pigments and hues like a musician with his notes. Viktor crafts colors that can subtly shift a room's mood or stir emotions.

He has carefully created a collection of over 460 colors through a process of continuous trial, fine-tuning and rigorous quality control.

His extensive library of hues offers a wealth of options to customize any design and a chance to express beauty and creativity, inviting you to explore your imagination.

A MADE ORDER COLLECTION

The Thorp of London studio has edited patterns, colours and grounds to create a first collection of 360 designs divided by style in a resolutely English decorative spirit: simple and exuberant, sensitive and audacious, elegant, classic and eccentric.

CHOOSE A DESIGN

Our extensive catalogue of designs provide a rich source of inspiration for clients wanting to customize a design to create something truly unique.

CHOOSE A GROUND

There are 29 fabric grounds and 2 wallpaper grounds to choose from; cottons, linens, hemp, jutes, moirés, non-woven papers with multiple textural effects.

COLOUR SELECTION

Select your colours from our colour chart according to the number of colours that compose the design.

Thorp breaks down the patterns by colour; each shade represents one screen. A colour chart of more than 460 shades has been created and each colour can be combined differently to create your own combination.

A detailed illustration of a bird perched on a flowering branch, surrounded by various colorful flowers and green foliage. The bird, with vibrant purple and green plumage, is perched on a dark, gnarled branch. The scene is filled with lush green leaves and several large, multi-petaled flowers in shades of pink, red, and purple. The background is a light, neutral tone, making the colors of the flora and fauna stand out. The style is reminiscent of traditional Chinese silk embroidery or fine botanical illustration.

Since ancient times, the giraffe has fascinated the West with its large legs and long neck. In 1826, Mehemet Ali decided to offer one to England. However, the giraffe did not cope well with the journey and it died on arrival in London. The animal's coat then inspired fabric designers in search of exoticism, like that of the cheetah, tiger or zebra.
